DUMP BLAZE CALLS FIREMEN TWICE

The fire department was called on Sunday and Monday afternoons to stop the spread of fire from the ravines dump near Alder River bridge. On both days the blaze was promptly extinguished, the pumper working from the bridge. It is said that both fires were not set but started from previous fires. Aside from the danger to nearby property, the restaurant of Bob and Merile and Ernest Buck's hay barn which houses farm equipment, the smoke from the dump rendered travel on Route 26 hazardous and at times traffic was completely stopped until the smoke lifted.

JACKSON-SILVER UNIT ANNOUNCES WINNERS IN AMERICANISM ESSAY CONTEST

"American Freedom — Now and Forever" was the theme this year in the Americanism Essay Contest, conducted by the Department of Maine American Legion Auxiliary. Twenty pupils of junior and senior age in Woodstock High School, Bryant Pond, competed for the awards given by the Jackson-Silver Unit, which are gold, silver and bronze Americanism medals. The State prize is $25 in cash.

First prize goes to Earl Cummings, second to Alberta Dunham, and third to Irene Whitman. The medals will be awarded at graduation.

Following is the winning essay: American Freedom—Now and Forever

When one reads this title he stands tall, breathes deep and declares he is proud to be an American. As he stands there tall and erect, I wonder if his shoulders are beginning to droop? For, one must admit, it is not a pleasant sight we see about us.

Let us divide our country up into sections to enable us to take a better look at our American freedom.

In Arizona we find the home of the Navajo Indians, the men who, above all Americans, have the deed to American rights. We look in upon the reservation. Here we find a land as barren and desolate as the no-man's-land of Europe. The people are crowded into an area so small as to make several families live within an area of a quarter of a mile. Do you think several families can live and grow sufficient food to live on in this space, even providing the land was fertile? As we travel about the village, we find children with eyes sunk into their heads and protruding stomachs, caused from malnutrition. Yes, I am ready to ask myself, "Is this our American Freedom?"

We turn back now to New York City and a typical slum district. Let us look down upon a street, with the sun beating down upon us. As we ride through this district, we see men and women smoking and drinking in the streets. We see brawls, and even murders. Ragged, muffled are playing in the garbage and water from open ditches, filthy, dirty and nearly uncivilized.

When we speak of freedom, is this the kind of freedom we ask for? No, we deal today more with peace treaties with aggressive nations, and not the freedoms within our States.

This is, of course, of great importance and an urgent necessity but to me we must start here, at the common place, to bring American freedom now and forever. We do not have proper housing or a sufficient amount of labor to keep us employed, and certainly we do not have the strength to keep us from depression!

No, friends, we do not own the freedoms we think we do. Oh, yes, we have freedom from want, of religion, speech and press but will these four departments give us freedom forever? DO THEY NOW? We have strikes as the result of speech. We have propaganda from the freedom of the press. We find malnutrition from the freedom from want and from freedom of religion, we have men who worship not.

LADY KNOWS BEST! ... Anne O'Brien, track coach at Capistrano high school, San Juan Capistrano, Calif., shows Gene Clark, one of her proteges, how to scale the hurdle. The lady ought to know best, too, because she was on three U. S. Olympic track teams and once bettered a woman's barrier mark.

Roland Bernier, Rene Pelchat, and Kendrick Judkins helped Fred Judkins saw his wood.

Fred Judkins is wiring his barn for electricity.

Mr and Mrs Richard Williamson and family recently visited relatives in Bangor.

Miss Phyllis Williamson is home from Kennebunk for a visit.

Mrs Albert E. Judkins and young daughter, Patricia Ann, returned from the Rumford Community Hospital, Wednesday of last week.

PEABODY - FULLER

The wedding of Lt. Richard Peabody of Akron, Ohio, formerly of Bethel and Gilead, and Miss Anna Fuller of Akron took place Saturday afternoon, April 30, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Akron. Dr. Walter Tunks read the vows at the altar at 2:30 in the afternoon. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fuller and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Peabody.

William Fuller, brother of the bride, William Thornton and Lt. Jack Peabody brother of the bridegroom, who had ushered the guests to their places, were the first in the procession that marched down the aisle to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding music played by Mrs. Lola Evans. Miss Ruth Jane Myers, Miss Barbara Tomkinson and Mrs. Frank Wahl served as the bridesmaids who followed. Miss Patricia Thornton maid of honor, preceded the bride, who entered escorted by her father.

The bride wore a candlelight satin gown made with a long court train. The sweetheart necklace was set in a yoke of lace and the sleeves were long extending in points over her hands. Her net veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and lace extending the length of the train of the dress. Her flowers were lilies of the valley centered by white orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the University club. The bridal party formed a receiving line in front of the fireplace in the ballroom. The mantle was decorated with spring flowers.

For going away the bride chose a suit in two-toned grey with a matching hat. Her shoes and purse were dark green lizard. A white orchid was pinned on the lapel of the suit.

The couple left on a honeymoon in New York state and will then drive to Ft. Eustis, Va., where the bridegroom will await order from the U. S. Army. They will stay at Willow Lodge in Williamsburg, Va., until permanent quarters are arranged.

YE OLD MERRY-GO-ROUND

HOW OFTEN do we hear the old saw, "Times will never again be like they were a few years back."

Well, a few years back there were emperors and kings and very rich men who built great houses and owned yachts. Do we think that will never be again? Think what they thought when Home fell; that the way they figured in Cromwell's time in England, and in Robespierre's time in France, and in every other land which has gone through the pangs of socialism and its constant companion, poverty, or through the awful economic degradation which follows paralyzing wars.

But they were wrong every time for, somehow or other, that old saw, home sapiens, just won't stay down. His structure is destroyed but he builds it back bigger than ever. A dictator steals his crown and isn't satisfied for long being just "Mr." If he doesn't covet a crown, his wife does; and sooner or later we have an Emperor Augustus or an Emperor Napoleon, a King Somebody or a reigning duke.

It may be an unworthy ambition—but it's there just the same, and it will keep sticking its head up as long as human nature remains as it is. In fact, if it weren't for these wild ambitions we would soon return to savagery, for ambition—worthy or unworthy—is the dynamo which drives man on to larger and more grandiose achievements.

It is difficult to picture Joe Stalin or Molotov or Vishinsky with diamond-studded crowns on their untidy heads—and we don't have to! But if the reign of these tyrants were to last until their natural deaths (and it won't) their successors would be dreaming dreams of "pop and glory" just as certainly as that the stars will rise. And those of their associates who were "in favor" would be building palaces and yachts.

So, the picture behind the Iron Curtain won't last very many years longer, but others will take their places and take as big, old grand children will witness the terrible conviction of those a warlike where now reigns a dictator.

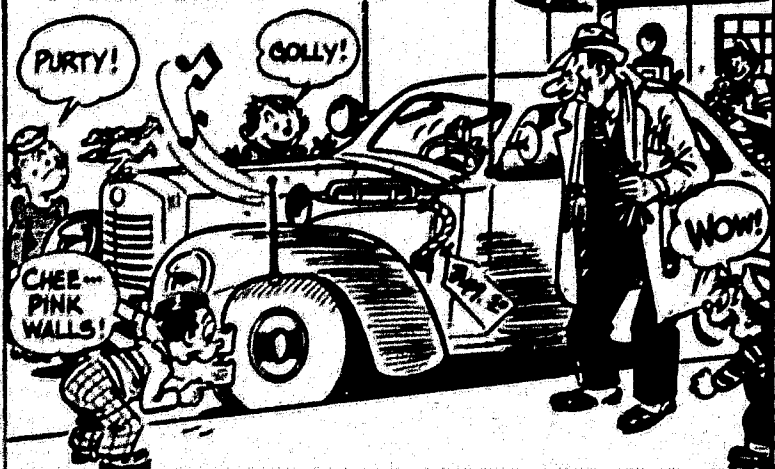

And so the world goes round and round. These change, nations boundaries are altered, each nation and race disappear but human nature the power part of it all—moves as slowly as the mountains.

I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From Mrs. Ella Claud of Goldonna, La.: "I remember when friends and neighbors used to have log rolling and quilting parties and they'd all get together for a big dance in the evening. Everybody had a good time. Many a kerosene lamp I have filled for such occasions."

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: "I remember when men's shirts were always made to order, three for $7, with extra, detachable sets of collars and cuffs. The salesman would call with his samples and mother would select something with a red dot, purple stripe or green stripe."

From "D. R." to Mrs. Mary Stewart: "I, too, remember when women saved their hair combs in a china jar called a 'hair receiver' to make switches, or extra braids, or wigs for the men folk. I remember when our minister's daughter had her knee-length hair cut on a dare; the barber, Mr. Conover, gave her $2 for her hair and hung it in his window. After that, first one and then another girl lost her hair under his shears and short hair soon became 'respectable.'"

From Mrs. Anna George of Bradford, Pa.: "I remember the good old kerosene lamp days when my four brothers and I used to sit around the table with my father and mother in the winter evenings and rib each other for feather ticks."

The Woodstock High School year book, the Eureka, is nearly completed and sales are expected to begin in about a week.

On the baseball field, the boys have had a streak of bad luck, losing the Canton game, 2-5. The hardest game for the fans, however, was the 4-5 score which our rival West Paris, took.

At Mexico our girls bowed to a loss of 9-12, and Thursday took Stephens High of Rumford here, 8-7.

Marist Vividly Describes 1852 Cross-Country Journey

Thursday, May 20

Two weeks ago this day we left New York for California expecting to cross the Isthmus and be easily shipped on the S S Lewis.

At this time but how liable we were to fall in our calculations instead of being on the Pacific we were more than 150 miles from San Francisco with a fair prospect of not coming thru before the first of June.

We started this morning at early dawn having repaired our boat at evening — and arrived at the first camp about 12 o'clock noon.

We were forced by the low level of the water to travel through the woods to a place where the river was expected to meet a boat to take us to Caspers River 40 miles this side the river but are again disappointed & will be compelled again to camp in the woods about 200 of us — We are very lucky in laying in a good store of provisions for the prospect is that we shall be compelled to find ourselves from 10 to 15 miles longer and by so doing we have some 50¢.

I have heard a great deal of the hardships of a journey to California, my predecessors but I can truly say the half has not been told — there can be a person know without being a journey himself.

They will advertise and tell you of fine boats they have prepared and what a fine route this is and that is but you can never find them then you are in total ignorance everything ahead and only find by experience — that there is nothing but fatigue and trouble.

A journey up this river is not about its pleasures. There is the beautiful scenery here I ever see. Trees of every rare kind in shape that you can imagine, a forest on either bank of the river rises to the height of 30 to 40 feet and so covered with vines to make a perpendicular wall in many places completely covered with flowers of every hue & the names I cannot tell one tops are as yellow as saffron, many of the head lands and there are a great many of them for the river is very crooked are most beautiful looking like our upland crooks — the whole of which is covered with a kind of grass looking more like Virginia corn than anything you can imagine being in six to 15 feet high and a solid mass. Thus far we have journeyed up stream some 75 miles. We have seen a single farm but one unbroken wilderness and yet the land is the foliage looks as though it could produce almost any kind of food in abundance. This river is a great highway to the sea for the great City of Grenada & the surrounding Country.

The city of Grenada contains, I am told, some 70,000 inhabitants. The river above here I am informed is very beautiful & I hope to see it for myself in a few days — Before dark we had our tents all made and prepared for this rest, and about 9 o'clock we had a large fire built to keep off mosquitoes and wild animals as jaguars and many of which inhabit these forests and to be heard in all directions and two hours were killed a few days ago on our camp ground. There is a grave near our tent where a man was buried this spring, bound to California from Ohio — by the name of Dickinson.

Friday, May 21 — Again we have passed a very uncomfortable night — made so by the heat, rain and the uncomfortable nature of our beds, and we could not sleep much from the excitement and fear of the Ladies, that they did or might see some animal that would attack them. You could hear them at all hours of the night calling for some man to turn out and renew the fires and several men were up all night. Early this morning men were coming in who upon arriving at our camp ground yesterday and finding no Steam boat there supposed the landing to be further up river and had proceeded up River some of them and others six or seven miles & finding no landing or boat started to return but being over taken by night were forced to camp out all night — many of them without a blanket or food.

NWNS Radio-Screen Editor

RUMORS have it that the "Phil Harris-Allice Faye" show will have a new sponsor next season. John Brown, one of Hollywood's top supporting actors, has his sights set — not on stardom, as one would suppose — but on fame as a producer in radio and television.

His air series based on "Barnaby" is only the first step for the man whose most famed characterization is "Digger O'Dell" on "The Life of Riley" and "Al" on "My Friend Irma." Edna Best, former English screen actress, has signed to appear at regular intervals on CBS' "Lum and Abner" show in the role of "Lady Britton."

Jack Carson landed a prize film plum recently when he was awarded the stellar role in "The Good Humor Man." Eddie Cantor is cancelling out his projected vaudeville tour and visit to Israel this summer in favor of a rest to prepare for his video debut this fall. "This Is Your Life" will be dropped at the end of the season. A peculiar situation in view of the program's immense following. . . but then sponsors do peculiar things.

PLATTER CHATTER

CAPITOL: This company puts out some of the finest children's records and their latest releases for the kiddies really hit the spot. Margaret O'Brien, popular child film star, narrates her favorite fairy tales—all of which are undoubtedly favorites of most children. . . Maggie does a beautiful job, with the help of sound effects and character actors, in presenting on one side of the disc "Little Red Riding Hood" with "The Frog Prince" on the reverse. On another record she does "Sleeping Beauty" and "The Princess Who Never Laughed" . . . The records come in a colorfully illustrated envelope and make an ideal gift for all children.

In pop singles, Capitol offers that wonderful team of Jo Stafford and Gordon MacRae in a clever, hitting number called "My One and Only Highland Fling" done complete with Scotch burrs by the principals. . . The flip is the slower "Thank You."

Or maybe you just want to treat your family to the same deliciously delicious dish served another way. Serve Boston Haddock Supreme with whole green beans, cauliflower or peas in place of the broccoli, and you'll promise you there won't be a scrap left.

Each farmer's pasture program will be judged this summer by a committee of dairymen from an adjoining county. Every entrant learns much about pasture improvement and has a good chance to make his farming more profitable. State and New England trophies, certificates, and a free bus trip to see pastures in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania await winners.
